

THE GUILFORD COLLEGE

DISSERTATION WRITING BOOT CAMP

June 18-23, 2023.

The Guilford College Dissertation Writing Boot Camp is a 6-day retreat aimed at supporting doctoral students as they write and complete their dissertations. The boot camp offers an environment for intense focus, and the necessary support to overcome typical roadblocks that can arise in the dissertation writing process.

PROGRAM STRUCTURE

In addition to 5-6 hours of focused writing each day, the program includes workshops on building careers in academic and non-academic settings for people with their doctoral degrees.

COST

There is no fee for participation for individuals selected to participate in the program. Complimentary housing and meals will be provided. Participants are responsible for their own travel expenses to Guilford College.

ELIGIBILITY

The boot camp is designed for Ph.D. students enrolled in doctoral programs in the United States and other countries, who have completed at least the initial stages of their research, and who are actively working on drafts of dissertation chapters and sections.

Participation is limited to 15 students.

To apply, please send a letter of interest (with your contact details), a brief 2-3 page overview of your dissertation topic (this can be adapted from your dissertation proposal), and a letter of recommendation from your dissertation chair to Reacie Daniel, Office of the President at Guilford College (danielpg@guilford.edu). For priority consideration, please submit all material by 11:59 p.m. March 31, 2023.
